HOSPITAL BOARD APPOINTEES WISE SELECTIONS OF SUPERVISORS

Conjecture of possible appointees to the Hospital Board to be named by the Board of Supervisors ran high during the past week, with the entire county interested in learning who the governing body of such a vital institution would be.

We feel we must commend the Board members in their choice of persons selected for this serious and responsible Hospital Board, for in checking the names when they were learned by us, we realized that many persons in Bay St. Louis would not be familiar with all the appointees, and it would be our pleasant privilege to give information on them. We commend the Board, for everything points to the fact that in making selections, each member gave grave consideration and much thought before naming a representative from his Beat. Nothing appeared to have been done by any member at random.

Mrs. T. P. Ward, appointed by Charles Russ from Beat One, is well known and highly thought of in her community, ,where she has been associated with the civic interests of her Beat, and is also a Registered Nurse.

Hubert Thigpen, appointed by Mrs. Samantha Keller from Beat Two is a former school teacher, and is currently in the business world. He bears an excellent reputation for understanding his people, and for his broadened knowledge and intelligent approach to all serious affairs.

Frank Shaw, appointed by Johnson Shaw, from Beat Three is a reliable business man of his community, and is self employed. He deals in lumber and operates a successful farm in his community, and has been one of its leaders for a number of years.

A. F. Selph. Justice of the Peace of Beat Four appointed by Jack Lott, had his worth proven by his community when it elected him into office, and has not failed in his duty. He is considered a sober minded, well thinking, fair and just man.

T. T. Reboul, appointee from Beat Five by R. G. Hubbard, needs little if any introduction to this area of the county. A successful retired business man, Mr. Reboul has been active in civic and church work of the county. Prior to his retirement he owned and managed the Western Auto Associate Store here, and before making his home on the Coast, was a successful business executive in Jackson and New Orleans.

The two members at large were equally well selected in our opinion. K. W. Pepperdene. who has resided for many years in Bay St. Louis, is a retired official of the United Fruit Company. He has been active here in Civic, Church and social activities and is a respected and popular man in the community.

Norton Haas, of Bay St. Louis, is another of Hancock's well respected citizens, who has worked with and for the people for many years. He has had contact with many types of community projects and has given clear thinking and earnest endeavor to every program of which he has been a part.

We further wish to commend the Board in making these appointments for discernment in selecting persons who did not figure in controversial prejudice prior to the vote on the Hospital Bond Issue. We feel they will give sincere, clear thinking in the jobs they have accepted, and to do their utmost to make the proposed hospital one of the best operated in the state.

Means Better Living For All Americans

What's in a tree!

Every day America's ground the With these answers, an ever-widening stream of new wood products pours forth from the forests and mills of this courtry's far-flung wood industries.

Progress in forestry and wood research knows no sectional deries. No matter where a new discovery is made, the benehis soon serend from one coast to the other.

Many By Products

In the South a high-quality labricating oil is developed as yet another product of the living pine. From the sulphite pulping industry comes a new material in a wide variety of products ranging from stoker fuel to glues and soil conditioners. Another product is ethyl alcohol, the same substance as is made from molasses or grain.

New glass and layer processes make it possible to form timbers and panels of just about any length, thickness and strength desired. These timbers, made of many smaller pieces of wood, are strong and light.

Cellulose Used In Many Ways At least 500 consumer items are made from chemical cellulose alone—all are the products of forest research laboratories. Cellophane, nitro cellulose used in military explosives and for sportsmen's ammunition, rayon thread, photographic film all are products made from wood through the magic of chemistry.

Scientists also are trying to grow bigger and better trees through seed-selection and cross breeding. Faster-growing long-er-faced, pest-resistant trees, may be the result.

Devices that strip bark off logs before they are sawed make more wood available for pulp and paper mills. Many pulp mile now receive a substantial percentage of their wood supply in the form of chips from leftovers from nearby sawmills and plywood plants. 9 This is like State January 1955
